Steve Buist, creator of the highly acclaimed and national award-winning Code Red series on health outcomes, will share his groundbreaking analysis of how the social determinants of health have been directly measured in Hamilton, Ontario. The shocking results – from staggering differences in birth weights to life expectancy and cancer mortality rates – expose inequities pervasive in neighbourhoods across Canada.

“Code Red illustrates that within Canada, which is such a supposedly developed nation, we have these massive disparities within a short geographical distance.”

Dr. Ann Reid, Past President, Canadian Medical Association