KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Dr. Emily Gard Marshall, PhD

"Family Medicine: A Noble Profession"

Dr. Emily Gard Marshall is a Professor in Dalhousie's Department of Family Medicine and Director of the BRIC-Nova Scotia SPOR Primary Health Care Network. Cross-appointed in Community Health, Psychiatry, and the Faculty of Health, she is also a Nova Scotia Health Affiliated Scientist. Her collaborative research uses mixed methods to examine primary healthcare from patient, provider, and system perspectives, addressing the quintuple aim: improving population health, equity, costs, patient experience, and care team well-being.

Dr. Marshall leads pan-Canadian studies, including the CIHR COVID-19 PUPPY-Study and the U-PATH study, focused on underserved populations. Her work, supported by over $110 million in funding, has produced 80+ peer-reviewed articles and 190+ conference presentations. She received the 2020 NAPCRG Mid-Career Researcher Award and is also an avid artist. Learn more at www.emilygardmarshall.ca.
