1. The people: You are surrounded by staff who are all genuinely interested in teaching and committed to your success.
2. Small program: You get to know your co-residents, faculty, and preceptors. The group of Peterborough residents is famously tight-knit.
3. Few learners: Few other learners on most rotations, creating a friendly learning environment with maximal opportunities for hands-on practice.
4. Longitudinal family medicine: Longitudinal relationships with amazing preceptors and patients, which allows you to build independence and confidence over time, and practise continuity of care.
5. Specialty rotations: Specialty rotations are specifically designed for their relevance to family medicine.
6. Involvement in teaching: You have ample opportunity to contribute to, organize, and lead teaching sessions for your cohort.
7. State-of-the-art hospital: A beautiful new hospital with a busy ER, timely access to most specialty services, and weekly grand rounds.
8. Community activities: Plenty of outdoor activities and events, community sports teams, art, music, and a year-round farmers market.
9. Work-life balance: Call duties are very manageable with minimal overnight call, to maximize daytime learning and encourage healthy work-life balance.
10. Minimal travel: Most clinical duties are within a one- to two-km radius, making it easy to walk or bike to most places. You are also out of town for rotations for only three to four blocks over the two years, so you feel rooted in the community.
